Our circulation has about doubled since we began advertising Brussels soap.

We think it a useless question for our readers to ask whether we use the soap and give whisksers for any man who will face the breeze of this cold winter without whisksers. It is not wise. The answer is how is to raise water. This reminds me of a story about a little girl who used to visit at her uncle's who was very fond of kissing her, and one time in particular she was asked to kiss him. She said, "I will kiss you, but you must first give me a glass of water."

The friends Clark has purchased a horse.

E. W. Edwards is quite lame with rheumatism in his back.

Only 108 crows are reported as killed and captured by the boys of the school.
